Minister Foley welcomes the significant increase in the number of children benefitting from the National Childcare Scheme

19th January 2026

Minister for Children, Disability and Equality, Norma Foley today welcomed the significant increase in the number of children benefitting from the National Childcare Scheme.

The scheme provides subsidies that substantially reduce the cost of early learning and childcare for tens of thousands of families across the country.

New data shows that a total of around 245,000 children benefitted from the scheme in 2025 – a 12% increase on around 218,000 children who benefited from the scheme in 2024.

There were significant increases in the number of children benefitting from NCS subsidies in Clare (18% increase), Offaly (18% increase) and Roscommon (16% increase). Meanwhile, the number of subsidised children has increased by 9% in Dublin city and an average of 13% in other areas of County Dublin.

The increase in uptake reflects the continued Government investment in the early learning and childcare sector, including a 53% increase in the minimum hourly National Childcare Scheme subsidy from September 2024.

Minister Foley said:

“This increase in the number of children benefitting from the National Childcare Scheme is a positive development. The National Childcare Scheme has undergone a significant number of enhancements in recent years and we will continue to build on that progress. New, lower maximum fee changes for families paying the highest prices and higher subsidies for lower income families are on the way in September. I am committed to ensuring families across the country have access to more affordable early learning and childcare.”

The recently published Shaping the Future: The Early Years Action Plan contains details of changes to the income-assessed National Childcare Scheme subsidies which will improve affordability for up to 47,000 children from low-income families.

These changes, which will be introduced in September 2026, will increase the lower income threshold from €26,000 to €34,000 and the upper threshold from €60,000 to €68,000. The multiple child discount will also be increased, which reduces parents' reckonable income for the Income Assessed subsidy.

There will also be reductions in the highest fees charged to parents across the country from September 2026, with the lowering of the maximum fees that Core Funding Partner Services can charge. These new, lower maximum fee levels will be announced in the coming months when full financial returns from providers have been analysed.

The National Childcare Scheme

The National Childcare Scheme provides financial support to help families with their early learning and childcare costs. The Scheme, which was introduced in November 2019, has been designed on the principle of progressive universalism ensuring that families on the lowest incomes receive the greatest level of support.

There are two types of subsidies available to families:

- Universal subsidies are available to all families with children between 24 weeks and 15 years of age. This subsidy is not means tested and provides €2.14 per hour for a maximum of 45 weekly hours.
- Income Assessed Subsidies are available to families with children aged between 24 weeks and 15 years. This subsidy is means tested and will be calculated based on the applicant's individual circumstances. The rate will vary depending on the level of family income, the child's age and educational stage, and the number of children in a family.
